

These are some of the beautiful art projects that my son William did with his care team. William sadly passed away on 22/11/19 aged 17 years old. He wasn't expected to make it to his first birthday so we were hugely privileged to have him with us for so long. Life was about all things sensory, sparkles, the great outdoors, seasons and the wonderful world of stories. Despite William's profound disabilities he would work on his art pieces for weeks with his care team, collecting, cutting, sticking and painting. He really did get involved with every picture and if he got tired it would be put away for another day. He was a busy boy but then the winter days were long and what else could we do?
