Libby was a very sporty and high achieving 14 year old until she became unwell.

Her symptoms progressed very quickly. She became unbalanced when walking and more clumsy when holding things. She is now 17 and her mobility has deteriorated further.

Libby has had numerous tests at Great Ormond Street Hospital, seen by several Neurologists, Neuropsychologists, Physiotherapists, Geneticists, Immunologists and is part of the 100,000 genomes projects but to date still does not have a diagnosis.

Libby has attended wheelchair basketball, adaptive yoga classes and adaptive circuit training at a local gym. We have also been to various establishments that mainly sell cake and coffee!
